BEN HOWLETT – MANAGING DIRECTOR PUBLIC POLICY PROJECTS

The state of the primary care estate

Public Policy Projects

- ▶ Primary Care 'State of the Nation' Report:
 - ▶ There are 7,527 GP practices in England, and a little over 41,800 GPs.
 - ▶ 2014 research by the BMA with almost 4,500 of GP practices found that 40% felt their premises are inadequate – making it a struggle to provide even basic GP services.
 - ▶ Six in ten GPs reported having to share desks or consulting rooms, with four in ten reporting that this limits the number of appointments they can offer.
 - ▶ Seven in ten said their premises are too small to deliver more services.
 - ▶ A separate report on patients' experiences of primary care highlights concerns around physical access to GP surgeries
 - ▶ The British Property Federation estimates that 1,300 new primary care buildings are needed to replace unfit GP surgery premises in England, with the £5bn of capital required to build them readily available in the private sector
